Correction – Sedation/Blood Work Standard

In the Newsletter/Winter 2016 edition, the LBVM published an article regarding “Pre-Surgery/Anesthesia Blood Work and Consent Forms”. The substance and effect of the article regarding the requirement of pre-anesthetic blood work prior to general anesthesia, which must at least be explained and offered to the client prior to the general anesthesia, remains the proper standard of practice. However, the issue of blood work as required prior to sedation (or at least offered to the client) is hereby changed after factual scenarios presented and further consideration by the LBVM.

Therefore, sedation is not automatically included within the concept of general anesthesia with regards to requiring blood work or, at least, an offer to do so made to the client. Rather, the standard of care set forth in Rule 1023 is applicable to sedation and blood work scenarios. In short, the LBVM will look to the facts in a particular matter, including the professional judgment of the attending veterinarian, in determining if the conduct complies with the “same degree of care, skill, and diligence as are ordinarily used in the same or similar circumstances by average members of the veterinary medical profession.” Such also applies to the question of whether pre-sedation blood work must at least be offered to the client in a particular matter.

Of course, the offer for pre-sedation blood work and the recorded declination by the client, preferably in writing, would be best evidence of what factually occurred in a given matter should the question later arise.

IMPORTANT NOTICE ON NEW CONTINUING EDUCATION FOR CURRENT RENEWAL PERIOD

Successful completion of this requirement once shall satisfy the requirement in full. However, an exemption for the 3 CE hours is available for the veterinarian or CAET with prescriptive authority who holds a controlled dangerous substances (CDS) license if he timely submits an annual certification form as adopted by the veterinary board attesting that he has not prescribed, administered, or dispensed a controlled dangerous substance during the entire applicable reporting period. Such form will be included in the next renewal packet for the period of October 1, 2018 - September 30, 2019. The required 3 CE hours set forth herein may be a component part of the annual 20 hours of DVM CE for licensure renewal and 6 hours of CAET CE for certification renewal for the 2018-2019 period, and may be part of the on-line allowance. The Board is also pursuing rule-making regarding this subject matter as required by Act 76 and is accepting public comment submitted prior to December 21, 2017. The Board will post the approved on-line CDS/CE courses on its website at www.lsbvm.org. Please be advised that no license shall be renewed for a veterinarian, nor a certification for a CAET, on October 1, 2018, who fails to comply with this CE requirement, or the exemption, prior to midnight September 30, 2018 as set forth in Act 76.
